View this email in your browser

CFAES News

May 3, 2019

Sesquicentennial Scholars
Ohio State awarded 150 sesquicentennial scholarships to students across the university for the 2019-20 academic year in honor of the sesquicentennial. The Sesquicentennial Student Scholar Leadership Program is one part of the university's sesquicentennial celebration and demonstrates a commitment to increasing access and affordability while recognizing students' academic and non-academic accomplishments and diverse interests.Eleven of the scholarships went to CFAES students (five ATI students, four undergraduate students and two graduate students). Read More.

Join our College Pelotonia Team - CFAES Sustains Life
As you may have noticed in the Dean's Monday Update, we have our own Pelotonia team this year. Please consider joining our effort as a donor, virtual rider, volunteer, or a rider over the weekend of August 2-4. Watch for fun opportunities to support the CFAES team this summer as they plan events to fundraise for the team. For more information on the CFAES Sustains Life team and/or planning committee, please contact Ben Wenner or Lori Bowman. We'd love to have you join the team! http://go.osu.edu/PelotoniaCFAES

Annual Research Conference Poster Winners
On Monday, April 22, we celebrated CFAES research at our Annual Research Conference. Gary Pierzynski, Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Education provided an update of activities of the CFAES Research Advisory Committee, closure to the National Council of University Research Administrators Review of 2016, and a look to the future for CFAES research. We also celebrated many faculty and staff achievements. Congratulations to our poster winners.

May CFAES Equity and Inclusion Workshops
Identity, Power, and Privilege
What does it mean to have privilege? How do your social identities (e.g., race, gender, class, religion, sexuality, etc.) grant or deny you privilege? How do you know when you have it and when you don't? How can we use power and privilege to break the cycle of oppression? This workshop will explore these questions, offering participants an opportunity to delve deeply into their social identities by creating a Multiple Social Identity Profile - a process that reveals how we all have and lack privilege simultaneously. Participants will begin to uncover sources of bias that have been reinforced by an unrelenting cycle of socialization, develop skills for effective allyship, and learn how taking even the smallest of steps toward equity, inclusion, and justice can transform an individual into an agent of change in their communities and profession. Read More.

Columbus - May 10th (registration deadline May 6th), 9:00AM-12:00PM, Location: 4-H Center Eastman Room

Wooster - May 24th (registration deadline May 20th), 1:00PM-4:00PM, Location: 126 Research Services

Online Education and Outreach

Extension Digital Engagement Webinar Series
Webinar dates and topics

BuckeyeBox - Box University
Have you accessed your BuckeyeBox account yet? Box University is a great way to get familiar with using BuckeyeBox. Start by launching the "Navigating Box" course to understand the look and feel. Next the "User Essentials" course will give you all the basics to start using box. For a more in depth tutorial, launch the "Box Education New User Course Series" that explains best practices for sharing, communicating and organizing your files within box. You can also join live Webinars to learn the basics. Read more.

Submit content to CFAES News
CFAES News content requests should be emailed to Lora Vest vest.62@osu.edu. Please include a brief statement of importance of the content for faculty and staff.

College News   College VP   Facebook   CFAES

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF FOOD, AGRICULTURAL, AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

Mailing address:

140 Agricultural Administration, 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus, OH 43210

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.