Associate Dean and Director of Academic Programs
College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences
The Ohio State University

Position Location: Columbus, Ohio

Detailed Job Description.

We are seeking a leader to become the next Associate Dean and Director of Academic Programs. We are particularly interested in applications from individuals with diverse life experiences and whose backgrounds position them as an effective leader who can envision, create and nurture an academic environment that supports students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds.

The Associate Dean and Director of Academic Programs serves as a member of the senior leadership team of the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) at The Ohio State University. Reporting directly to the Vice President for Agricultural Administration and Dean, the Associate Dean works collaboratively with the other members of the leadership team of the college, including department chairs and unit leaders, in leading the implementation and continuous improvement of a comprehensive and integrated strategic plan for CFAES. Collectively, the senior leadership team serves as stewards of the land grant mission of teaching, research, and Extension.

The Associate Dean is expected to be a champion for an undergraduate student culture that promotes diversity, equity, and inclusion, excellence, personal and professional success, and life-long learning. The Associate Dean provides leadership and oversight for the teaching and learning enterprise of CFAES. In providing leadership for teaching and learning, this Associate Dean works closely with the Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Education. The Associate Dean will be responsible for the recruitment, retention, and growth of our college’s undergraduate students and will collaborate with faculty on teaching, learning, assessment and curricular changes and innovations.

The Associate Dean and Director will lead the Office of Academic Programs. The office consists of over 20 staff and provides support to departments/units and students regarding the lifespan of the undergraduate student including recruitment, enrollment, retention, growth and degree completion. The Office of Academic Programs will be undergoing an external review, which is an expectation of not only our academic departments, but our central units, as well. The next Associate Dean will work with the Dean and the Office of Academic Programs in developing an action plan based on the external team’s recommendations.

About the College.

The College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) includes three campuses (Columbus, CFAES Wooster, and Statewide), OSU Extension and 4-H, 10 academic units, 11 research stations and field labs, and over 100 unique centers, institutes, and programs supporting a breadth of work around food and food systems, a wide range of production, environmental and ecosystem sustainability, policy and economics, and health. We are committed to scholarship across our three mission areas (teaching, research, Extension) with a commitment to serving our state in addition to the country and world. As a land grant, we are part of a cooperative structure which includes key partners all dedicated to integrating research, education, and extension to improve the food and agricultural sectors, the environment, and the quality of people’s lives. We educate not just college students but over a million individuals across the lifespan. We work to ensure that groundbreaking scientific discoveries are brought out of the laboratory and into the hands of those who can put them to work. CFAES is both literally the cornerstone college of our university – which began as Ohio A&M – and the cornerstone of sustaining human life on earth because of our disciplines. In the spirit of living up to the mission that We Sustain Life, our strategic alignment and plan (http://go.osu.edu/strategicalignment) outlines our 5 goals for the near future, one of which - Student First Philosophy - is of key importance to this position.

CFAES had 2,859 undergraduate students enrolled in Autumn 2021 semester. Of that total, 2,275 undergraduate students were enrolled in one of 22 bachelor’s degree majors (https://students.cfaes.ohio-state.edu/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-degrees) on the Columbus campus with an additional 125 students enrolled in CFAES at one of Ohio State’s regional campuses (Lima, Mansfield, Marion or Newark). Further, 459 students are enrolled on our CFAES Wooster campus through our two-year program across a variety of majors and specializations (https://ati.osu.edu/find-your-major) at Ohio State ATI. We are home to 35 minors (https://students.cfaes.ohio-state.edu/academics/minors) that include students from inside and outside CFAES. Our college boasts some of the strongest retention and placement metrics and provides more scholarships than any other college at Ohio State.

CFAES has over 325 tenure-track and professional-track faculty with an additional 80-90 part- to full-time lecturers that support our teaching mission. We are home to seven current faculty who have received one of the USDA Excellence in Teaching Awards with many others having received NACTA teaching honors, university teaching distinctions and teaching awards through professional organizations.
